

MEGAN

I know what you're thinking. "How could I embarrass you? Fail you?"
Well, let me tell you something about those men... my "clients"... your FRIENDS.

Michael Stanton liked to hold me down. He wanted me to fight him off, that was his fantasy.

Peter Robinson -- you spoke at a conference with him, didn't you? -- he liked to watch. Do you want to know who he watched me with?

(beat)

I even asked about you. You were always so taken with these women. I had to know, what it was they did that was better than Mom. That made them worth leaving us for.

I know nothing will change.
You and your friends will just go back to doing anything you want. And keep getting away with it.

Who was it that said, "you don't pay a prostitute for sex, you pay her to leave afterwards"?

Dashiell Hammett, I think.

(beat)

That never made sense. It's always the men who leave first.
Isn't that right, Dad?